Labor wins Bendigo: no love lost

Lisa Chesters at Maldon Community Lunch last year.

THERE were polite digs in each direction after the tense Bendigo vote count drew to a close last weekend, with a concession of likely defeat from the Nationals' Andrew Lethlean on 9 May, followed by the Labor Party's incumbent, Lisa Chesters MP, claiming victory on Saturday 10 May. The two-party preferred count of votes in the Federal Election ended in the Bendigo electorate with Lisa Chesters on 51.4% and the Nationals' Andrew Lethlean on 48.6%.

In his statement to media, Mr Lethlean said he was "disappointed" in the result but proud of being part of a team that delivered a swing against the Labor Party. "I put myself forward as a candidate for the seat of Bendigo because I wanted to make a difference, given the Labor Party has taken our region for granted for so long," he said, before adding: "I am confident that we won't be taken for granted again." Mr Lethlean also said that his party would monitor to ensure that Labor's local funding commitments, some of which matched pledges by the Nationals, were followed through.

Ms Chesters, retaining the seat in the House of Representatives that she has held since 2013, said: "I am honoured and humbled to have been elected to represent our community in Bendigo and central Victoria for the fifth time." And in reference perhaps to the campaigns waged by her political opponents, Ms Chesters added: "Our grassroots local campaign was focused on the things that are most important to our community - not on negative personal politics, funded by millions of dollars."

Mr Lethlean congratulated the returning member and said "I hope that she works hard to represent the needs of our community." Ms Chesters reply was: "I will continue to work hard every day to deliver the things people and businesses in our region need and deserve."

Funding for local community upgrades

Maree Edwards MP with representatives from the Mount Alexander Shire Council and Harcourt community at the announcement to celebrate upgrades to James Park, funded by Tiny Towns.

A number of community projects in Mount Alexander Shire will receive upgrades from the State Government's Tiny Towns Fund, Member for Bendigo West Maree Edwards MP announced on Friday 9 May. The announcement was made at James Park in Harcourt, the triangular slice of land that is host to numerous community activities.

The Tiny Towns Fund distributes community-building grants for towns with populations of fewer than 5,000 people. This round of grants were between $5,000 to $50,000; the application to have James Park upgraded, which were submitted by Mount Alexander Shire Council, was awarded the maximum amount of $50,000. The upgrades will include safety infrastructure and facilities to improve events in the park.

Other grants in the region will go to projects at Chewton Community Park, Newstead Arts Hub, Maldon Golf Club, Walk Tarrangower Village and Muckleford Recreation Reserve.

"These projects are so important," Ms Edwards said during the announcement, which included representatives from Mount Alexander Shire Council, Regional Development Victoria and the Harcourt community. "They might not be a lot of money but they make a difference." She said she was really looking forward to seeing all the projects come together.

As National Volunteer Week approaches next week, Ms Edwards voiced a reminder that in many cases it was volunteers that ensured the small town projects were given attention and funded: "We know that the volunteers behind these projects are the heart of their communities."

Chesters claims victory; gets back to work

AFTER a nerve-wracking and very close end to the Federal Election, returning Member for Bendigo Lisa Chesters MP announced on Monday 12 May that she is back at work to deliver for the people of the electorate.

In a statement, Ms Chesters said that the Federal Government will dedicate the next three years to making a positive difference to lives of all Australians, by building a strong economy and a fair society to reflect the resilience and generosity of Australians. Ms Chesters will proceed to meet with local stakeholders and community members in the coming weeks and commence planning to deliver the local commitments made during the election campaign. She said she will also attend community lunches, community events and host listening posts throughout the Bendigo electorate.

Ms Chesters said: "I love our community, and just as I have done over the past 12 years, I will continue to work hard every day to deliver the things people and businesses in our region need and deserve. I am so proud to work in our community, to represent the Bendigo electorate in Canberra and be a strong voice in the Albanese Labor Government. Now it's time to get back to work and deliver on the better healthcare, higher wages, greater housing options and world class education and training that Australians voted for."

Court in Session

to watch is growing, because now we have the steps and somewhere to sit."

Plus, they can see at training! "The new lighting makes a huge difference," Louise said. "Seniors train at six o'clock, in the dark. There were patches of the court that you would avoid because you couldn't see the ball."

Hopefully this great environment and community translates to successful, fun games for the netballers. It's possible to head along to watch them play and support the teams, particularly with the new viewing steps where spectators can sit. If you'd like to take a more active role in the club, either as a player or behind the scenes, get in touch by emailing: secretarymfn@gmail.com.

Louise said: "The club is always looking for volunteers, people to help out, not just in a playing capacity, there's so much behind the scenes stuff." She listed examples of jobs including helping in the canteen, boundary umpiring and working at the gate. A small and dedicated volunteer committee also helps keep the ball rolling, in more ways than one.

Keep an eye on upcoming games by following Maldon Football Netball Club on social media and you can follow the results in the Tarrangower Times.

Bite Size News and Opportunities

CFA volunteers protest at Premier's office

Angry CFA volunteers took their fire tankers to Premier Jacinta Allan's Bendigo office on Friday 9 May to protest about Labor's proposed emergency services tax. Fire trucks and farm vehicles also blocked traffic on Melbourne's West Gate Bridge and brought Spring Street to a standstill outside Parliament House.

The Nationals' Member for Northern Victoria Gaele Broad said CFA volunteers and farmers were angry and upset over the controversial new tax. "This protest was not something they did lightly. Some drove their tankers 200km to get here today in a bid to have their voices heard," Ms Broad said.

The Nationals have launched a campaign called Scrap The Tax campaign in a bid to prevent the proposed changes to the emergency services fund.

Regional train service increase

The State Government announced on Monday 12 May that there will be an increase in the number of carriages on trains running on the Bendigo Line, with weekend trains containing six cars. It says that a new timetable is currently being developed to include additional carriages during the busiest times. The additional investment to increase the services was part of the Victorian Budget 2025/26.

Day asks Are You Safe at Home?

Saturday 10 May was the fifth year of Are You Safe at Home? Day, which aims to start conversations about what to do if you're concerned that someone you know is experiencing abuse. An organisation that specialises in family and gender-based violence called Safe and Equal created the day as an awareness-raiser, providing information about the signs to look out for, what supports are available, and how to safely start a conversation.

"Many people experiencing abuse will never reach out to police or access support services on their own," said Tania Farha, CEO of Safe and Equal. "It's really the people closest to them – their friends, family, neighbours and even work colleagues – who will see things that others don't, and who are in a unique position to offer help." Ms Farha says asking someone if they are safe, listening without judgement, and believing someone when they disclose abuse can make a world of difference.

The Are You Safe at Home? website contains a suite of resources to help, including a conversation guide, animated video series in 15 community languages, and a support service directory for every state and territory in Australia.

La Trobe unveils ambitious Regional Growth Strategy

La Trobe University announced on Monday 12 May a five-year Regional Growth and Innovation Strategy that it says reinforces the University's commitment to driving economic and social impact through transformative education, pioneering research and industry partnerships, plus continued investment in La Trobe campuses in Bendigo, Shepparton, Albury-Wodonga and Mildura.

As part of its focus on expanding what the University offers to regional students, La Trobe's new strategy aims to grow enrolments in its on-campus, hybrid and online courses by four times the growth rate of the domestic student population in regional Victoria by 2030. The University says that achieving the goal will narrow the gap between metropolitan and regional higher education participation across its campus network by a third.

The Regional Growth and Innovation Strategy 2030 is built around three strategic pillars which are: reformed education for regional learners; research that drives regional development and vibrant, multipurpose regional campuses. In addition to regional student growth targets, the strategy includes development of more short courses and micro-credentials, doubling the number of regional industry partners and entrepreneurship programs supporting, connecting and fostering regional innovation ecosystems.

La Trobe says its programs, including its employment-based Nexus teaching pathway, fully online MBA and end-to-end Rural Medical Pathway, are helping more people upskill without leaving their communities.

Work at the next election

Applications are now open to work at the 2026 state election, as the Victorian Electoral Commission (VEC) starts the process to recruit more than 1,000 senior election officials across Victoria. The VEC says senior election officials play an invaluable and significant role in coordinating elections for entire districts and local councils.

Acting Electoral Commissioner Dana Fleming said that the role is a critical pillar of delivering democracy at a local level during elections. "You don't need previous election experience. It's all about the skills and life experience you can bring to the role – if you're organised, have a good eye for detail, and most importantly bring a positive attitude, that's what we're looking for," Ms Fleming said.

The VEC also plays an important role in the education and inclusion of Victorian communities who are traditionally under-represented at the ballot box. For the 2026 state election our senior election officials will be engaging with these communities by delivering outreach services, raising awareness about the democratic processes.

Ms Fleming said elections are a rewarding experience, working with community and ensuring the VEC delivers fair and trusted elections. "Many of our senior election officials have now been working with us for more than 20 years and we are proud to have their experience and depth of knowledge in our organisation. If you're a business owner, if you're retired or semi-retired, if you're a parent, if you're an artist, or a coach of the local footy club – we want to hear from you," Ms Fleming said.

Applications are open until 25 May, at careers.vic.gov.au/job/senior-election-officials-855486.

2025 extreme weather costs reach $1.5 billion

The Insurance Council of Australia (ICA) released new data on Monday 12 May, saying it shows that insured losses have reached almost $1.5 billion from 126,000 claims, following two extreme weather events this year. Claims from the February North Queensland floods and ex-Tropical Cyclone Alfred in March are being prioritised by insurers, with an additional 20,000 claims received as a result of Alfred in the last month, increasing claims costs by $267 million. Insurers have now received more than 116,000 claims relating to damage following ex-Tropical Cyclone Alfred totalling more than $1.2 billion. Thirty-seven per cent of these claims have already been settled, totalling $146 million. Insurers have received almost 11,000 claims totalling more than $250 million from the North Queensland floods.

Homestead hosts Biggest Morning Tea

THE owners of a historical homestead are extending an invitation to morning tea in the garden to raise money for a cancer charity. Plaistow Homestead is an 1840s house and farm in Joyces Creek; the event is held nestled amongst its beautiful garden spaces.

Plaistow's Biggest Morning Tea will be held on Saturday 24 May and the hosts, Peter and Lilian Skilbeck, are arranging a relaxed and comfortable gathering. In addition to a home-style morning tea of hot drinks and fresh scones, there will be local stalls with handmade goods, live music and the opportunity for friendly 'fire pit chats'.

Funds raised at Biggest Morning Tea events, which take place around the country in May and June, go to Cancer Council which distributes it for life-saving research, prevention, support programs, and information.

Peter said it would be a casual event set in a beautiful spot. "We sit on the banks of Cairn Curran at Joyces Creek. From here, we probably look straight down into two or three kilometres of green valley." Even after the recent dry stretch, the change of seasons have been noticeable. "We've got a hint of life around," he said.

The choice of charity was important and personal to the Skilbecks, whose family has been affected by cancer. Members of the extended family will be helping out on the day and perhaps speaking about their experiences with attendees. "We might have the opportunity to mix with a few of our guests," Peter laughs, having been too busy during previous years.

This sounds like a Biggest Morning Tea with a big heart; a nice day out for a worthy cause.

Plaistow's Biggest Morning Tea will be held on Saturday 24 May from 10am to 12.30pm at 324 Rodborough Rd, Joyces Creek. If you can't attend and would like to donate to the cause, you can do so at tinyurl.com/36nptkyp.

The Skilbecks welcome volunteers to help at the morning event. You can reach them at plaistow@bigpond.com or on 0419 884 710.

Weed Watch

Bathurst Burr

Common Name: Bathurst Burr

Botanical Name: Xanthium spinosum

Weed Classification: Bathurst Burr was first declared a noxious weed in Victoria back in 1856. It is a Regionally Controlled weed in the North Central Catchment (our region) and must be controlled on private and public land to prevent further spread.

Where did it come from: Bathurst Burr was introduced into Australia allegedly tangled in the tails of horses imported from Chile (South America) in the early 19th Century. It originally established in New South Wales, including Bathurst, and was observed by John Macarthur in the early 1830s. By the 1850s it was the cause of public concern.

What does it look like: Bathurst Burr is an annual multi-stemmed herb to 1 m high. The stems are greenish-yellow, covered in fine hairs and with brown burrs (10-12 mm long) covered with numerous hooked spines (2-3 mm long) growing along their length. The leaves are a narrow-rhombic shape, shiny dark green and have sharp spikes up to 2.5cm long growing from their base. Flowers are inconspicuous and creamy green at the end of the stems.

Why is it a problem: Bathurst Burr is a significant weed of agriculture and occurs in roadsides, water courses, waste areas, and is mainly a pasture and rangeland weed. Seedlings are poisonous to livestock, particularly horses and pigs. The burrs contaminate wool and the spikes injure stock and native animals.

It is a serious competitor with crops such as cotton, maize, peas, potatoes, soybeans, sorghum and grapes.

How does it spread: The burrs of Bathurst Burr are covered in hooked spines and attach readily to livestock (especially wool), wildlife, clothing, and are spread in mud and soil. They also float on water and are readily carried along water courses, sandy creek lines and areas that flood. Each burr contains two brown, flattened seed about 9 mm long, one of which is capable of immediate germination, but the second may stay dormant in the soil for several years.

Spread: Bathurst Burr is present in all states and territories of Australia but is widespread in Queensland, New South Wales, eastern South Australia and Victoria, including the Mount Alexander Shire.

How to Control on private land: If you find this noxious weed in your garden or on your property, please treat it to prevent further spread. It is highly visible when growing, and control in pasture is readily achieved by commonly used selective herbicides, or spot spraying small infestations with non-selective herbicides. Removal by hand is not recommended due to the sharp spines. Small infestations are best dealt with by hoeing or grubbing / chipping individual plants. Plants carrying burrs should never be dumped as the seeds easily spread, but burned, or double bagged and disposed of in your domestic waste.

Report plants on public land: If you find plants growing on the roadside, please advise either Mt. Alexander Shire at info@mountalexander.vic.gov.au or Vic Roads via the contact link on their website. If found in Maldon Historic Reserve, please email Parks Victoria at info@parks.vic.gov.au.

It's always really helpful to these authorities to also use the 'WeedScan' app to record the location of plants.

Homeshare model gets spotlight ideas

MEMBERS of the Legislative Assembly Environment and Planning Committee came to Dhelkaya Health in the first week of May. They heard from representatives of Homeshare Mount Alexander, including Homesharers and Home providers and the Homeshare peak body, the Homeshare Australia and New Zealand Alliance (HANZA). The visit is part of the Committee's ongoing inquiry into the supply of homes in regional Victoria.

On behalf of the Victorian Parliament, the Committee is examining the methods of building and the mix of housing types across regional communities. It aims to hear from a wide range of stakeholders, including community organisations, industry bodies, local governments, and individuals with lived experience on both the challenges they are facing and the opportunities for policy improvement. The Committee visited Castlemaine to learn about the Homeshare model and its potential to be one part of housing solutions in the future.

At the meeting, participants discussed how the Homeshare model works by matching people who need support and companionship—such as older adults or those with a disability—with individuals who are seeking affordable accommodation and are willing to offer help. In exchange for a room in the home, Homesharers provide practical assistance and companionship. This mutual exchange model fosters social connection, eases housing stress, and can help older people live at home for longer.

HANZA representatives presented evidence on Homeshare's effectiveness and discussed the model's potential scalability to meet the needs of other regional communities.

Ms Julie Addison, Chair of the Committee and MP for Wendouree, said: "We heard about the benefits of the program and heard directly from participants, noting how the program offers a low-cost solution to housing shortages in regional areas that makes use of existing housing stock. Hearing about the lived experience of those involved in the program has provided the Committee with valuable insights."

Dr. Di Cox, Homeshare Mount Alexander Coordinator, said she is thrilled the Committee are interested in finding out more about Homeshare. Dr Cox said: "Our Homeshare experience has been very positive. Having a mutual exchange model based on a clear legal contract means everyone knows where they stand, and they're supported every step of the way. We're seeing benefits like people being able to complete education, keep their local jobs and families being able to relax knowing their loved one has a person living with them."

The five Homesharers who attended the hearing spoke about the benefits they've experienced. Homesharer Rob said "I have past experience of tenants and boarders in my home but this experience is so much better. I am flourishing with Homeshare. We are doing things together around the house which I had a lot of trouble getting to alone. It's also the relationship. I feel like I am living in a home again thanks to the support of the coordinator to help us set it up. It's a wonderful turning point for me."

Dr Meg Montague, research and evaluation expert and HANZA representative, said Homeshare uncovers a hidden housing supply at relatively low cost and can address some of the housing stresses in regional Victoria without long infrastructure development delays.

Dr Montague said: "We know there is an urgent need for housing in regional Victoria, especially for essential workers. At the same time, census data reveals that there are over 1 million spare rooms in regional Victoria. Increasingly older people want to age in place in their own home, and a growing body of evidence shows that social isolation and loneliness are critical elements of poor mental health. Homeshare ticks so many boxes; it is a smart use of an existing resource, and the evidence here in Australia and internationally is that it brings significant social and economic benefit to individuals, communities and governments. HANZA urges the Victorian government to invest in homeshare as a component of a response to the need for housing in our communities."

The Committee is conducting a range of visits across Victoria to understand community needs around regional housing and inform its final recommendations.

The Old Fire Brigade Building
MALDON Fire Brigade celebrates its 163rd birthday on Thursday 15 May, according to the plaque on the wall of the current CFA building at 85 High Street. It is possible to see some history of this local fire service without going very far from the centre of town.

It's always a glorious time of year to stroll in and around the Maldon Shire Gardens; with autumn colours abounding, it's particularly nice right now. There are various historic buildings to observe and one on the Fountain Street edge is an unassuming, brick-cottage-like box with a double-fronted door. It stands in minimalistic contrast to its neighbour over the road, the 1863 Gothic Revival Church that now houses Cascade Gallery.

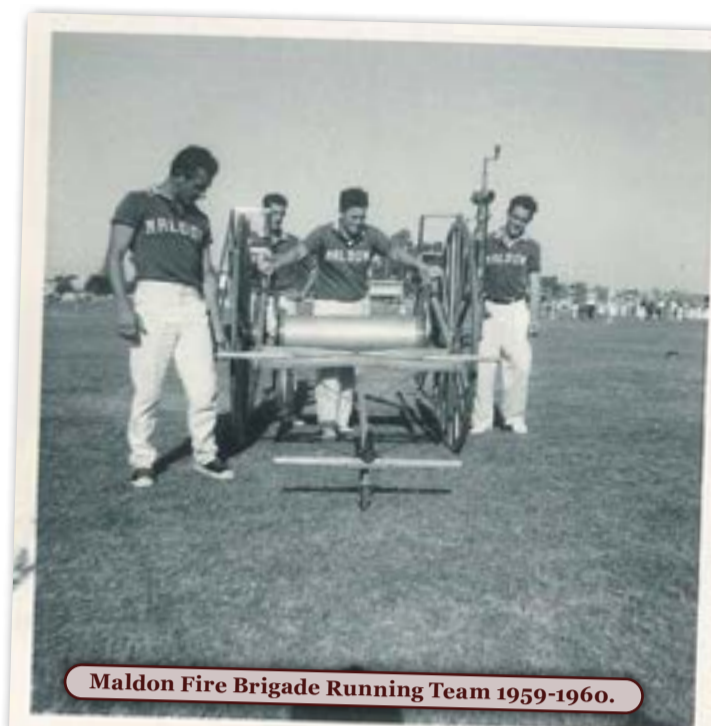

The simple brick building is known to have been used by the early Maldon Fire Brigade, perhaps as its original fire station. As described by Ian Riley in the TT in the Friday 2 August 2024 edition, the brigade would direct the flow of water from the dam above the footy oval down to the broad gutters of Maldon and set up a temporary dam from which to pump water. It was a clever approach during a time when dry periods would have hit hard - the discovery of water sources at Spring Street and Butts Reserve must have been appreciated.

In the intervening years since the fire brigade moved from this small building in 1957, it has been used variously as storage and an Opportunity Shop by the local Lions Club.

To see examples of the vehicles used by early versions of the Maldon Fire Brigade, visit the Maldon Vintage Machinery & Museum at 4 Vincents Rd, Maldon. Meanwhile, it's great to pause and acknowledge the exceptionally long tenure of the local Maldon fire response service.

From Grass to Glass – Sustainable Grazing Between the Vine Rows

IF you've ever wandered through Panacea Estate and seen a flock of sheep wandering between the vine rows, you might have wondered: What are they doing here?

The answer is simple and surprisingly effective. They're helping us make better wine.

Grazing sheep in the vineyard isn't just a picturesque scene for photos (though it's great for that, too). It's part of a sustainable approach to farming that keeps weeds down, soil healthy, and our vines thriving.

The Benefits of Vineyard Grazing

Sheep are like the perfect vineyard employees—quiet, hardworking, and not too fussy about lunch breaks. Here's why we like to keep them around:

- Natural Weed Control
Forget the mower or herbicides. Sheep happily nibble down weeds and grass, keeping the vineyard floor tidy and reducing competition for the vines' precious water and nutrients.
- Fertiliser on the Move
Sheep don't just eat—they give back. Their manure adds natural nutrients to the soil, boosting organic matter and helping with water retention. It's a closed-loop system.
- Soil Health
Grazing animals lightly compact the soil, which can actually improve structure and reduce erosion if managed carefully. Their hooves press organic material into the ground, where it can decompose and feed the microbes that make for rich, healthy dirt.
- Reduced Fuel Use
Fewer hours on the tractor means less diesel burned, lower emissions, and a smaller carbon footprint.

Pest Control

Sheep also eat some of the vineyard pests (like certain weeds that can harbour insects) and don't mind snacking on the leaves of cover crops that might otherwise attract unwanted bugs.

Timing Is Everything

Of course, you can't just set sheep loose in the vineyard all year and sometimes they are the animals I'm chasing out of the vineyard or they are the reason there is no 2023 Cabernet Sauvignon. Timing is key:

- Winter and Early Spring – This is prime grazing time, when the vines are dormant and there's no tender fruit for the sheep to nibble. They can roam freely, munching away and fertilising as they go.
- Late Spring to Early Summer – Once the buds burst and new shoots appear, it's time to move the sheep out to other paddocks. Hungry mouths and fresh growth don't mix well.
- Post-Harvest – Once the fruit is off the vine, the sheep can come back in to clean up leftover leaves and canes, keeping disease pressure low.

On a personal note, last year was the first time we had done this after replacing a number of fences, and for me, one of the quiet joys of winter is seeing the sheep move among the rows. There's something deeply satisfying about this cycle—watching animals graze beneath bare vines, their breath steaming in the cold morning air, their gentle baaing carrying across the frosted ground and knowing it will help in making a better vineyard and glass of wine. I like to think the sheep enjoy it, too. Fresh air, green grass, and a bit of freedom before the growing season kicks off again.

Next time you pop a bottle of Panacea Estate wine, picture the vineyard it came from—sheep included. Or, if you're visiting over the next few months before bud burst, come for a walk and meet our woolly weeders. They're a bit shy, but they're always working hard to make the vineyard a better place. And if you've got a small farm, garden, or even a backyard chook run, let us know how you use animals to keep things in balance. We'd love to hear your stories.

Central Goldfields Village Business Expo

‘BUSINESS supporting business’ best describes the Central Goldfields Village Business Expo held on Friday 9 May in Carisbrook.

Small and micro-business owners came from far and wide to showcase and network with other businesses. It was a great opportunity to ‘think outside the box’ and brainstorm with other attendees.

Local, state and federal government representatives shared support initiatives and support businesses such as social media marketing, banking experts and mental health professionals offered a glimpse into what is available.

This was not an opportunity to sell/market a product or business; it was more than that. It was an opportunity to focus on connection with other like-minded people. On that day, partnerships were formed and ideas were turned into action.

Team Luz Restrepo OAM (Maldon) and Kerrie Dowling (Maryborough) were the driving forces behind this epic day.

Kerrie is the face of the Committee for Maryborough, a community-driven organisation focused on shaping a strong, sustainable future for Maryborough and the wider Central Goldfields region. Kerrie believes that when businesses, community leaders, and government work together, towns grow stronger, become more resilient, and create new opportunities for all.

Luz is an energetic presence around Maldon. Luz founded Sisterworks and co-founded Migrant Women in Business, both social enterprises designed to support women with migrant, asylum seeker or refugee backgrounds. Luz believes that small and micro businesses are the backbone of local economies, creating jobs, sustaining main streets and fostering community wellbeing in small towns without large employers. Yet they often lack the support networks and resources to grow. Luz says, “That is why we must come together regardless of sector, size or town. ‘Village Business’ strengthens regional economies through collaboration and practical action.”

This Expo certainly achieved all of the above and more. As Luz says, “From little things, big things grow.”

If you are a business owner and missed this golden opportunity to network, there will be another Expo in October: the Mount Alexander Village Business Expo at The Mill in Castlemaine on Wednesday 8 October 2025. Although, understandably, it is difficult for small business owners to take time out from their business, this is a valuable opportunity to network and build partnerships that could possibly lead to greater things.

Natural Newstead

Australian Owlet-nightjar,
Yandoit area, 28 April 2025

Sunny side and up

Australian Owlet-nightjars are nocturnal, but not entirely inactive during daylight hours.

I spotted this one high up in a Candlebark Eucalyptus rubida, sunning itself at the entrance to a horizontal hollow. As I ventured closer the bird suddenly retreated, then reappeared at the opening a few minutes later. It is well worth checking east facing hollows for this species on sunny mornings.

Over the next little while two other 'owlets' called nearby from different directions, perhaps only 50 metres away. They will often call during daylight hours, at any time of year, their harsh screech is one of the iconic sounds of the Australian bush.

The large, old trees in this spot make for perfect owlet-nightjar habitat.

Down below in the understorey of Silver Wattles several Eastern Spinebills were actively chasing insects. Flowering beautifully in the copse of wattle was some Grey Mistletoe Amyema quandang, an important source of autumn nectar for honeyeaters and butterflies.

Grey Mistletoe – showing leaves, buds and flowers.

Eastern Spinebill (male) in Silver Wattle.

The glossy black crown is the main distinguishing feature of the male Eastern Spinebill.

We look back and remember things through the filter of events which happen later, right up to the present and so it's sometimes hard to imagine the significance of something that was new, 60 years ago.

To me, the EH was a paradigm shift in design, something otherworldly.

Completely different to anything else at that time.

The best comparison I can think of was something else that was so new and different that year that it defied description...The Beatles. Incomparable to anything that had gone before.

It was the beginning of a new era and you could sense it in the air.

So, I look at this car and I see a time capsule. It's been owned by the same family since new and virtually unchanged. Although it's in remarkable condition, it's showing the scars and the signs of ageing, of a life well lived and every little mark tells a story. It's an unbroken link with the past.

The current owner is the great-nephew of the original owner and is very aware of its significance. He remembers, as a little boy, a family outing to Wormbete Station, near Winchelsea. The smell of the leather, which was a feature of the 'Premier' model, takes him back to that day. It's his time machine. He considers himself to be a custodian, rather than an owner, because he is merely taking care of it until the next generation steps up. It will never be for sale on his watch.

The Premier was the top of the range and sold for about 1,400 pounds, which was a bit more than the average annual salary at the time, so about $100,000 in today's money. It was an expensive car.

Part of the charm is the original bits and pieces in the glove box. It was originally purchased from Stillwell Ford in Cotham Road, Kew and the little advertising trinkets that usually get thrown out are all still there, collectable in themselves. They all contribute to the perception of the time capsule. A treasure chest of memories.

I think that it's a reflection on the way that we, as Australians, think; that a car like this is worth more than what would have been a 'prestige' car of the era, a Mercedes or Rolls-Royce.

We put a huge value on our heritage and our memories.

NEWSTEAD PRIMARY SCHOOL AT ANZAC DAY AT MEMORIAL PARK

Newstead Primary School took part in the ANZAC Day service at Memorial Park. Students sang songs, read poems, made wreaths, and helped represent our school and community.

The choir sang some meaningful and heartfelt songs, including Short Memory by Midnight Oil and The Quartermaster's Store. Short Memory is about the world's big wars and the terrible things that happened. The chorus talks about how people are forgetting the tragedies of war. The Quartermaster's Store is a funny song about how the food at the army stores was bad. It helped soldiers take their minds off what was happening around them.

After the singing, four students read poems. Wren and Stella read The Inquisitive Mind of a Child, which is about a child asking their mum why people wear poppies, and the mum getting upset because people are starting to forget.

Jean read The Ode, a very important poem that is always read at ANZAC services.

Percy read The Bugler's Call, a poem about a young person getting ready to play the bugle on ANZAC Day.

Our school captains, Aika and Wilbur, raised the flags. Elwood and Parker laid the wreath that students made using flowers and plants from our school. They also laid a wreath made by our music teacher, Deb Ferguson.

A big thank you to Deb Ferguson for all her hard work with the choir and helping us get ready for ANZAC Day.

CASTLEMAINE CLUSTER FOOTBALL, NETBALL AND SKILLS DAY

In Term 1, Newstead Primary School (N.P.S.) participated in the Castlemaine Cluster Football, Netball, and Skills Day at the Wesley Hill Recreation Reserve.

On the 28th of March, the N.P.S. Grade 5/6 students hopped on the bus and made their way into Castlemaine. N.P.S. competed against lots of other schools from the district. Leading up to the event, we practised hard in P.E. lessons and also trained together during lunch and recess. Our coach, Mitch, who is also the official coach of the Newstead Football Netball Club U14.5s, helped prepare us for the day.

Before the games started, lots of students were feeling nervous. But we ended up going undefeated!

In football, Parker and Wilbur both kicked three goals each in the grand final, and Percy kicked five goals, all in the grand final!

Over on the netball courts, the netballers were flying too, with Jhetta and Remi shooting goals from everywhere. The netball team finished as runners-up, putting in a great performance.

Some students shared their highlights:

Iris said, "I loved working as a team and coming runners-up in netball." Iris played centre the whole day.

Eve said she loved trying something new and kicking some goals in football.

Max said he loved playing and winning the grand final. Max played midfield and got lots of centre clearances and passed the ball to many forwards.

It was a fantastic day for both the football and netball teams!

URBAN CAMP IN MELBOURNE

At the end of Term 1, Newstead Primary School went to Urban Camp in Melbourne. It was a great eye-opener for lots of us who hadn't spent much time in the city before.

Classes 4 to 6 went on a three-day camp at Urban Camp in Parkville. It was a great experience for most of the kids. Iris from Grade 6 said, "I really liked the MCG tour!" For a small country school, going to Melbourne was an awesome way to try new things and get ready for later years.

There were lots of exciting things at camp, like ice skating at O'Brien's Icehouse, visiting the Queen Vic Market (where everyone got to bring $20 to spend), and touring the MCG. The MCG tour was amazing because we got to see things that most people never get to see. We also visited Scienceworks, explored the Old Melbourne Gaol, had dinner at Universal Restaurant, and even went to the Melbourne Zoo at night!

The three days were action-packed and full of fun. Catching trains and trams was a new experience for many of us, and it made the camp even more exciting.

BLAST FROM THE PAST

The powder magazine

WITHIN a few years of the discovery of gold at Tarrangower, surface deposits were largely exhausted. Miners then turned their attention to the area's quartz reefs. This form of mining required the use of large quantities of gunpowder.

In December 1858 'Jack Falstaff' wrote to the Tarrangower Times drawing its attention to the danger of storing large amounts of gunpowder in the town's centre. To illustrate the risk, he said he had seen kegs of powder sitting on the footpath outside McMillan & Padley's store in Main Street while clouds of sparks issued from Stone & Treadwell's blacksmith forge next door.

The Town Council shared these concerns and canvassed the Victorian Government to establish a powder magazine. However, other projects such as the hospital and telegraph office took priority. In May 1861 the Government finally agreed to build a magazine and the town surveyor, Robert Nankivell, was asked to select a suitable site. He recommended a site at the western end of Adair Street where Maldon's water tank now stands. The surrounding area would soon become known as Magazine Hill.

Within six months the powder magazine was built and the Clerk of Court, John Nott, was appointed its official keeper. Maldon was also declared a municipality covered by the Gunpowder Act. This Act required that anyone bringing more than two hundred pounds of gunpowder into the town should immediately deposit it at the magazine. It also regulated merchants dealing in gunpowder and limited the amount of powder that could be transported in any vehicle. On January 21 1862, John Knott notified the public that the magazine was officially opened and that the provisions of the Gunpowder Act had come into operation.

While the magazine reduced the likelihood of a disastrous explosion in town, the risk of a major fire at the magazine remained. In December 1864 grave concerns were raised about the high grass inside the fence surrounding the magazine and the Council employed a contractor to remove it. For some reason, this contractor started by burning the grass outside the fence. The fire rapidly spread inside the fence and towards the magazine holding over a ton of gunpowder. It was only the quick action of men who lived nearby that averted a calamity.

While the Government magazine was intended to be the town's only storage place for large quantities of explosives, others were built. In 1885 the Council allowed Samuel Dabb to build a magazine in Tobin Street to store dynamite. This became an issue five years later when Louisa Wagener wanted to build a bakery nearby. Dabb refused to close his magazine and the bakery was not built.

It is unclear when Maldon's powder magazine finally closed, but in about 1905, a dynamite magazine was built at Porcupine away from populated areas. The old Maldon magazine then seems to have fallen into disuse. A similar magazine at Beechworth was decommissioned in 1918.

Rising to the top

THERE is the saying, 'the cream always rises to the top' which implies that recognition may not be instant but will eventually occur over time. 'Rising to the top' is not an easy thing to do, whether it be life in general or even playing Bridge which is a complex game in itself. But, as in life, you can only deal with the hand you are offered to your best ability!

That was the challenge for the day as we settled into our weekly afternoon get-together and waited for the draw to be announced. One by one our names were called and with a quick shuffle around we commenced play for the afternoon. Who would be the 'cream that rises to the top', only time would tell!

One by one the boards were played out and there was some opportunity to gain game contracts but mainly it seemed that defeating the opposition was a great help in getting a final good score.

Following the afternoon tea break, we played out the final boards and then it was quickly onto the organising of tallying the scores to reveal who would 'rise to the top' this week?

In first place, came the call from Ken, were Werner and Judy Mac who were the 'Cream that Rose to The Top' with a runaway score of 55 points. Needless to say, a couple of absent-minded mistakes by yours truly, including the sinful 'trumping your partner's trick' brought some Oohs and Aahs from the table!! Fancy forgetting this, as I remember when I was first learning that I did this, e.g. Trumped my partner's Ace winner!! I was told by my very experienced partner quite quickly that you do not do that, as I shrank back into my chair in dismay!

Ken and Mary were second with 47 points and coming in at third place were Aileen and Jan G. with 45 points. Newstead Jo and Fred were fourth with 41 points and followed by Jan and Kevin in fifth place with 38 points. Well done to everyone in the battle to be the 'cream that rose to the top'!

We will be back again next week with the hope we can continue to 'rise to the top' as often as we can.

Whatever your age group or skills please feel free to join us each Thursday at the Senior Citizens Rooms 1pm to 4.30pm to help us in our endeavours to

IN MALDON TODAY RADIO PROGRAM

Deanna Neville, Director of The Good Art Crowd.

TODAY Ann and Nancy welcome back Graham Pitts and Michael Treloar to spread the word about their next stage performances with Kyneton's Cathouse Players. And on things theatrical, it's also opening night for Castlemaine Theatre Company's latest production of Shakespeare's 'A Midsummer Night's Dream', featuring a bevy of MAINfm presenters.

Last Friday EC and Nancy talked to Deanna Neville (pictured), Director of The Good Art Crowd. A variety of studies eventually, by a very roundabout route, led to Deanna achieving her dream of starting an art gallery. Her concept is relatively simple but very innovative. She organises pop-up art exhibitions in private homes with a group of artists who put up to five pieces for sale into the exhibitions. The most recent was at Palm House in Maldon. If you would like to learn more call Deanna on 0428 751 090 or look up her Facebook page or email thegoodartcrowd@gmail.com.

Next week Ann and Mike will team up to present the show, with guest Marie Bell – talking about MMAA (Maldon Museum & Archives Association), bus tours, exhibitions and living under a Trump regime.

Olivia on Chappy

Brags In brief

IN February Olivia and Chappy ventured to the incredible Willinga Park Equestrian Centre at Bawley Points NSW for the 4cte Dressage by The Sea 2025.

What an outstanding facility! Amazing architecture, landscape, sculptures, gardens and world-class Equestrian Facilities. It was an amazing experience. The fabulous pony 'Chappy' the cob tried his heart out, as did Olivia. They even placed in one of the tests, which was a bonus. Olivia's scoring throughout has earned her and Chappy an International rating for her class, which has the duo in the top 50 internationally! The National Rating rates them in the top 30, so they are going very well against top-class riders and horses and enjoying the experience as well.

Just recently, Olivia and Chappy were back competing in the National Inter-School Events held at a Geelong Grammar facility and gained a second and third for their efforts. Olivia was not feeling very well, but Chappy 'took to the stage' as the true professional, as the 'Show must go on' and helped Olivia complete the tests. Congratulations and very well done!

Library news

You're all invited - Be part of the launch of the Maldon Athenaeum Library History Vignettes.

WE are very excited to announce the launch of the Maldon Athenaeum Library History Vignettes on Saturday 24 May at 2pm in the RSL Hall, rear of 97 High Street, Maldon. Please join us for the official launch by local writer and historian, Robyn Annear and a very special guest from the library's colourful past. View highlights from the vignettes, meet some of the vignette writers, take a tour of the library's collection of historic artworks and join us for afternoon tea.

Beginning in 1863, the library has a long history as an independent, community-managed library run entirely by local volunteers. We are launching the Library History Vignettes during Volunteers' Week May 2025 as the project is only possible because of the work of library volunteers to bring order to the library's collection of historical documents. These including correspondence, borrowing records, minute books and newspaper articles. Information from these and other archival sources has been used by volunteers to create a series of vignettes, 'brief, evocative descriptions, accounts or episodes', accompanied by images, that are easy to read, factual and lively. After the launch, the vignettes will be available to the public on the library website, maldonlibrary.org.au.

The vignettes aim to paint a picture of the library's 162-year history. From these vignettes you can learn about the early days of the library as a Mechanics' Institute, the trials and tribulations of getting established and finding a permanent home, the addition (and later demise) of a Billiards Room and the mysterious fires in the 1930s. Other vignettes explore the struggle to remain independent and afloat, the many community connections (including the 1936 Popular Girl Competition), the changing nature of borrowers and their reading habits and the origins of the current building, its artworks and photographs. Learn who won the 1909 billiards 'invitation friendly' between Maldon and Castlemaine Mechanics' Institutes. Over afternoon tea, share your stories of the Maldon Athenaeum Library to add to the history of this old institution that has provided a continuous service, against the odds, since 1863.

We are thrilled about this launch. It is the culmination of processes that began a long time ago, by volunteers in the past as well as the current crew. It has been entirely volunteer managed, created and driven (like so many things in Maldon). This is not the end, however: more vignettes are planned or in the process of being created, to be added to the website in the future. Watch this space!

Booking for the launch is essential.

Newly promoted Detective Chief Inspector Kathy Kolla investigates a series of brutal murders on Hampstead Heath. Under intense pressure to find answers, she arrests the unlikely figure of John Pettigrew, a failing London publisher who lives alone on the edge of the Heath. Pettigrew's lawyer calls on recently retired David Brock for advice, and soon, unable to resist the pull of investigation, the old colleagues, Brock and Kolla, are at loggerheads.

At the heart of the gripping mystery of the Hampstead murders lies a manuscript of an unknown novel by one of the greatest literary figures of the twentieth century. Brock believes that its story will unlock the puzzle, but how?

Doggos OF THE Goldfields

Introducing our readers to their local doggies and what makes their tails wag!

TT: Hi Fizzi.
Fizzi: That's a funny shaped ball.
TT: It's not a ball, it's a camera and I thought you might like to be the Doggo of the Week.
Fizzi: Don't you have a a round ball? I don't like the look of that thing.
TT: Not with me. And it looks like you are having a walk.

Fizzi: This is my family, they adopted me from Phillip Island and sometimes they say Fizz Bang Wallop.
TT: Are they talking about you?
Fizzi: I think it is the noise I make when I play with a ball.
TT: You have a lot of energy, Fizzi, it must have seemed a very long drive from Phillip Island.
Fizzi: I quite like travelling, actually. Maybe because a hatchback is a spacious vehicle if you're a Jack Russell. But you're right, I do like to play hard.
TT: Now may I take your photo for the paper?
Fizzi: Get back to me when you've got a round camera that bounces.

If you'd like the TT to interview your Goldfields Doggo, send us an email: editor@tarrangowertimes.com.au

Maldon Pétanque Club

*Sunday was Mother's Day
Hip Hip Hooray*

ON Sunday we acknowledged all mothers with a special mention for Mother Nature, who provided a magnificent autumn day, bright skies, no wind and plenty of good cheer, who could want for more on the Pétanque piste.

Before the games started, mention was made that two teams of five played at Ballarat on Saturday 3 May, with seven other clubs in the NW Challenge Cup. Whilst both teams finished in the middle of the rankings, all our players were happy with their performances. Congratulations to Ballarat PC, who won the day. Also on Friday 9 May we journeyed to Campbells Creek for the Autumn Challenge with Castlemaine U3A. Again another beautiful day weatherwise and even though the pistes were different to what we are used to, we were victorious 9 games to 3 and so retained the trophy.

We again welcomed visitors from Mt Macedon, Pyrenees and Bendigo Clubs who helped swell the numbers for our three games on Sunday. After play the computer advised there were three players who had won their three games with the best scorer being Viv Markham 3 wins 21 points, there was a tie for second with both Barry Droney and Phil Hopley finishing with 3 wins 11 points. Terry Hunter from Mount Macedon PC came 4th with 2 wins 11 points.

The major event on our calendar, the Forster Cup, will be held on St Brigid's pistes on Saturday 24 May. This is our annual fourth annual mixed triples tournament. We have a full house of 72 players already registered. Let's hope we have another lovely Maldon Autumn day.

Our next games will be on Sunday 25 May; be there early for a 1pm start on the St Brigid's pistes. All welcome for the fun and games

Please note: training/practice is on every Thursday at 3pm for the rest of autumn and the forthcoming winter.

Maldon Golf Club

LAST Saturday's event was Individual Par. Maybe not every golfer's favourite event due to the 'cut-throat' scoring format, but a great opportunity for golfers to warm up for the PINEHURST CHAMPIONSHIP tomorrow. Golfers, select your playing partner prior to hit-off.

Course conditions, being as good and challenging as they possibly can be, ensured some good scoring and great competition between golfers.

The adage, 'when you're hot, you're hot', applied to Richard Ruff for his past few weeks of golf, when he achieved his win on Saturday, although challenged by an excellent game from Bruce Ackland. Richard's great Eagle from the previous week was obviously still top of mind. He 'birdied' numerous holes for a great score of plus 4. Lucky for Richard that he had a 3-hole margin as a buffer when having a 2-shot penalty imposed for a minor rules infraction, when hitting off on an incorrect tee, still managing to hold on for his 1-hole victory.

INDIVIDUAL PAR EVENT

WINNER	Richard Ruff	plus 2
RUNNER-UP	Bruce Ackland	plus 1
GOOD SCORES	Glyn Milner	minus 1
	Amanda Fedorowicz	minus 2
	Bruce McGregor	minus 2
